Games
from  SPAIN

A PUBLICATION WHICH PROVIDES A COMPLETE
PICTURE OF SPAIN'S GAMING INDUSTRY.

María Peña Mateos

Message From the CEO of ICEX, Spain Trade and Investment.

Dear reader,

ICEX, Spain Trade and Investment, is proud to present the new edition of our Guide to Games from Spain 2023, the perfect way to discover the Spanish gaming industry at a glance.

As it is widely known, the video game industry generates more revenue today than other long-established cultural industries, and it also possesses tremendous potential for international expansion. The limits of growth in the gaming industry remain unknown.

At ICEX, we strongly support this innovative sector through various activities. The brand “GAMES FROM SPAIN,” created by ICEX to represent the sector, is well-established and deeply rooted in the international market. Under this brand, we promote our companies internationally and foster international partnerships to increase their visibility and enhance exchange.

This guide, published annually, serves as a fundamental promotional tool for Spanish companies at international events. It provides an overview of the Spanish gaming sector, showcasing its values and talent. Whether you are interested in developers, publishers, or service providers, you will find all the necessary information to connect with any Spanish company in the industry.

We are excited about the possibility of collaborating with you.

Diversity is a Virtue

In recent years, the general perception of video games has changed considerably, changing from all too often being looked down on, to being seen as a worthy - but not necessarily easy - professional option. And the figures support this. Based on the 2022 White Paper on Spanish Video Game Development, which analyzes the results provided by the studios participating in 2021, we can see that the Spanish video game industry grew by 16% over the previous year in monetary terms, with a total turnover of more than €1.28 billion, while employing more than 8,800 professionals. Another positive aspect is that there are more and more development studios set up as companies, and that these are lasting over time, with 65% of them having been active for more than five years.

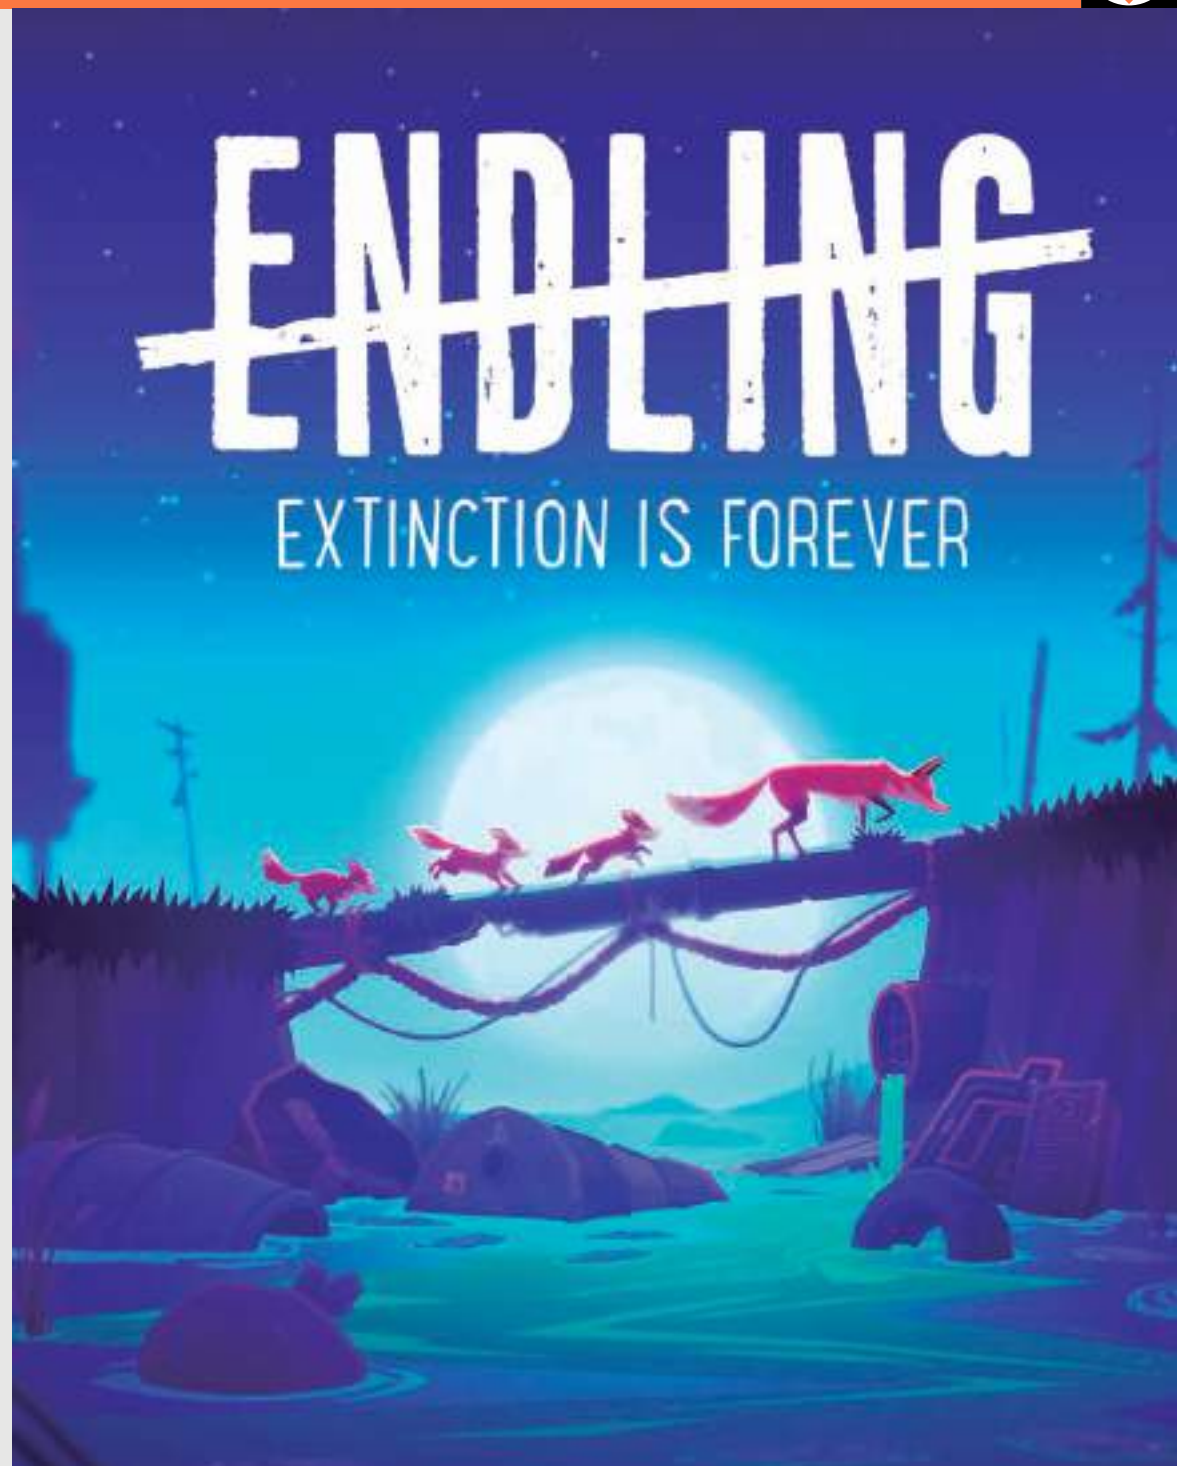

Taking into account this upward growth trend and the future launches by Spanish studios, the turnover for 2025 is expected to exceed €2.2 billion.

In Spain, young people can boost their talents as video game developers thanks to the creation of multiple schools, which are offering more and more specialized courses. At the same time, there is also an increase in incubators and programs that spark the development of new studios, and also serve to help other professionals in the sector who decide to set up their own businesses. Among them are the Polo de Contenidos Digitales de Málaga, GameBCN and Madrid in Game to name but a few.

Moreover, every year more and more Spanish studios pack their bags and travel the world, visiting the most important trade fairs, such as Gamescom in Cologne, GDC in San Francisco and the Tokyo Game Show, in search of funding, publishers or recognition from the public and the media worldwide. One specific case worth highlighting because of its social nature is GALLY, from the Fundación Once. This is a Spanish project that aims to raise awareness of the need to facilitate access to video games for people with disabilities. GALLY was presented internationally in the ImpACT section of the Marché du Film at the Cannes Film Festival, showing the interest that video games and their social impact generate beyond the events within the sector itself.

Returning to Spain, year after year, we are getting better and better at holding meetings that attract an ever-increasing number of publishers and other foreign professionals. Gamelab, which this year returned to Barcelona stronger than ever, the Bilbao International Games Conference, with its internationally recognized awards, and IndieDevDay, which is gaining momentum with each new edition and brings together more studios per square meter than any other national event are all clear examples of this.

Looking back, in 2022 we had everything. From new IPs such as Ankora: Lost Days by Chibig, which in 2023 will delight us with Mika and The Witch's Mountain, Summum Aeterna by the recently created Aeternum Game Studios, and Temtem by Crema Games, which finally saw the light passage through Early Access. There were also sequels to successful titles, such as Ziggurat II from Milkstone Studios and Red Matter 2 from Vertical Robot, which earned a nomination for best virtual reality game at The Game Awards. Assassin's Creed Valhalla, with the involvement of Ubisoft Barcelona and Evil Dead: The Game, from the Spanish headquarters of Saber Interactive. And continuing with horror, we seem to love it in Spain. We have TAPE: Unveil the Memories from BlackChiliGoat Studio, Insomnis from Path Games, Do Not Open from Nox Noctis and Evil Nun: The Broken Mask from Keplerians. And that's not all. Some of the most important national brands put their trust in our studios for the development of their video games. Examples include Alfred Hitchcock: Vertigo with Pendolo Studios, Star Trek Prodigy: Supernova with Tessera Studios and Bratz: A Presumir de Estilazo with Petoons.

But if there was one title that really caught on in 2022, it was Endling: Extinction is Forever from Herobeat Studios. It won the BAFTA "Game Beyond Entertainment" award, and the name says it all: we are about to lose what we love most if we do not take care of the planet. Because video games, like literature, painting, cinema, and music, are a form of culture. They allow us to express our desire to be the heroines or heroes of history and our fears and concerns, and they sometimes manage to impact us in a way that no other medium does, because with the controller in our hands we ourselves can take charge of the story.

If we look at the present and the near future, 2023 is full of joys in terms of new releases, which include a huge variety of genres, stories, and types of protagonists: After Us from Piccolo Studio, Minabo: A Walk Through Life from Devilish Games, Blasphemous II from The Game Kitchen, The Mageseeker from Digital Sun Games and Song of Nunu from Tequila Works, both launched by Riot Forge under the League of Legends umbrella, The Cosmic Wheel Sisterhood from Deconstructeam, The Fabulous Fear Machine from Fictiorama Studios, and Call of the Sea VR and American Arcadia from Out of the Blue, together with many others.

Now it's time to stock up to the max with life potions and look for every possible power up to overcome the challenges we face in this industry, in a world that is becoming less and less predictable, but always with the passion and love for what we do that so characterizes video game developers.

RELEASE
DATE:
29/11/2022

PEGI:

GENRE:
RYTHM

Developed in exclusive for Netflix. We are working on the Nintendo Switch version (2023). Create a grand spectacle with Hello Kitty and friends. Make new allies and lean on your abilities to avoid traps that can rain on your parade!

Play as Hello Kitty as you and two friends start a tour through a fantasy world to bring joy to its citizens. Along the way, you'll find new friends to join you – the more, the merrier as the festivities grow.

But beware of Kuromi! She's jealous of your many fans and wants the parade to fail. She's banded together with Nyanmi, who's built an army of mechanical underlings to help them with their work. They've set traps to ruin all of your hard work.

Harness your abilities and the power of friendship to convince everyone – even Kuromi – to join the fun. Dance on, despite the pitfalls, to keep the party going!

Facies Hermetica

PLATFORM:	STATUS:	RELEASE	PEGI:	GENRE:
PS5, XBOX	DEMO	DATE:	3	3D SINGLE PLAYER CARDS
SERIES X, PC		2024		AND ROGELIKE GAME

Facies Hermetica is an alchemy game set in 16th-century Toledo, with strong elements of Hack&Slash and adventure. Facies Hermetica is like taking a bit of A Plague Tale, adding a generous amount of Hades, and seasoning it with hints of Potion Craft, all presented in a 3D world with psychedelic details.

The player will have to prepare their build through alchemy. Then, they will invade an alchemical world where they can combat, explore, and interact with the environment and its inhabitants. This allows them to gain understanding and power. When they return to the real world, they can use their newfound knowledge to prepare alchemical recipes in the laboratory and improve their build for the next run.

Bullet Points:

- Discover how to interpret the mysteries of Alchemy and ancient treatises from centuries ago.
- Succeed in preparing the Philosopher's Stone.
- Utilize your upgrades to enhance your builds and fight in an incredible world populated by strange beings.

El Coco is an action-adventure game in which the player will move freely around the different levels fighting against the nightmares (enemies) he may find and solving puzzles to advance through the labyrinthine paths of The Uncertain. The protagonist can absorb the weakened nightmare's abilities, giving him special powers useful in combat.

A young boy is dragged by the Meigas to Lo Incierto, a place inhabited by creatures of dreams and nightmares. After waking up without memories and turning into a monster, he asks for help from the first creature he encounters: El Coco. The latter tells him that if he wants to recover his memories and return home, he must eliminate the three Supreme Nightmares that inhabit The Uncertain and its surroundings. Blindly trusting El Coco, the boy begins his journey to recover his memory and return home.

Fix it Fast! is a VR game where you have to renovate buildings to pass a technical inspection before they can be sold. You only have a limited time before the technical inspector comes to check the house, so you have to be fast fixing any problems that you could find. You can use multiple tools for the task, and maybe a quick fix is better than a proper one due to the time constraints.

Anything to pass the inspection in time! But will your fixes hold up long enough?

Beetested

WWW.BEETESTED.COM

Artificial intelligence-based crowdtesting platform that measures real player reactions and thus helps developers to improve their games according to their target audience and before official launch of your video game in development.

We help game developers measure player emotional feedback and define what part of the game, events, mechanics, cinematics, and so on, caused what type of reaction.

Beetested allows you to track the emotions and reactions that players feel while playing the game through their faces. People's faces don't lie.

Our technology will define and measure players' reactions and engagement levels. You will receive reaction statistics for all test players, all events and for each of them.

That's how you can test the demo with your player persona, discover new target, increase the engagement level of your game and test earlier, more often and faster.

Owo

WWW.OWOGAME.COM

OWO has developed and patented a haptic system for you to feel video games, watch movies or interact in the metaverse. It is unique because we can create infinite different sensations thanks to our Sensations Technology. Physically feel everything that happens to avatars in the virtual world: impacts, interactions with the environment, experiences and alerts. They have created sensations such as the wind, a ball, a gunshot, the sensation of fast driving and dagger wounds.

The system is compatible with all platforms: PC, mobile, tablet, console and VR and it can be used in single and multiplayer. OWO has created an algorithm of sensations that can modify nine different parameters of the pulse train, allowing us to create multiple sensations.

OWO's mission is to turn the virtual world into reality.

United Gamers

WWW.UNITEDGAMERS.PRO

We are a company founded by sports training specialists who have developed a digital academy where esports players can improve their performance in the video game, working on specific skills such as aiming, dodge and last-hit among others.

We are professionals in sports science and we want to use all the knowledge that we have in sports training science to professionalize the League of Legends training.

Esports players, currently train exclusively by playing the video game. However, nowadays, there is a lot of sports science and training methodology that focuses on creating tasks to optimize the performance more than just the 5v5 match. With our knowledge onboard, we decided to develop a "simulator" to train esports players because the most important thing they have to train is the cognitive structure, just like in Formula 1.

We have developed different tasks to train the League of Legends skills (aim, dodge, kiting, ...) with greater complexity than in the videogame, seeking for an improvement of the users' performance when they go back to the game. Training in a higher stress way, makes it easier when they return to the videogame.
